

Horizon task instructions

Welcome!

You will get to play the stacked boxes game.

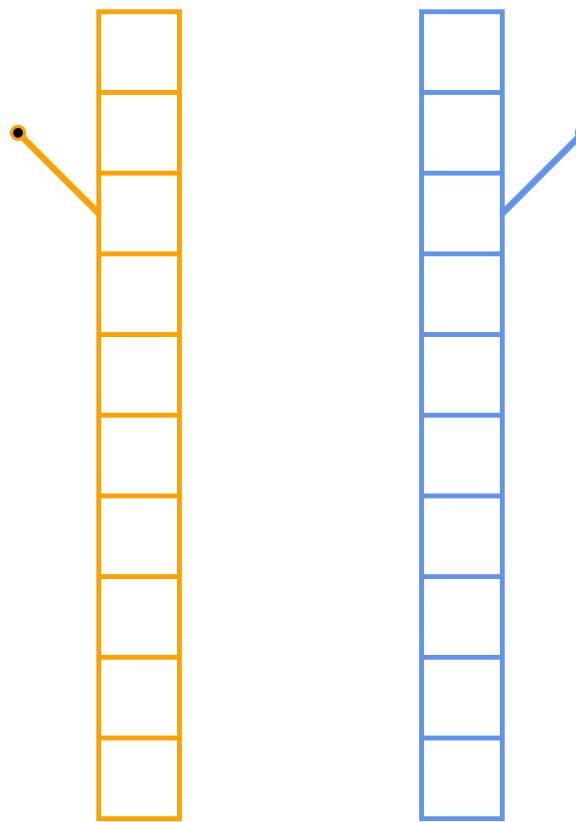

You get to choose between two stacks of boxes.

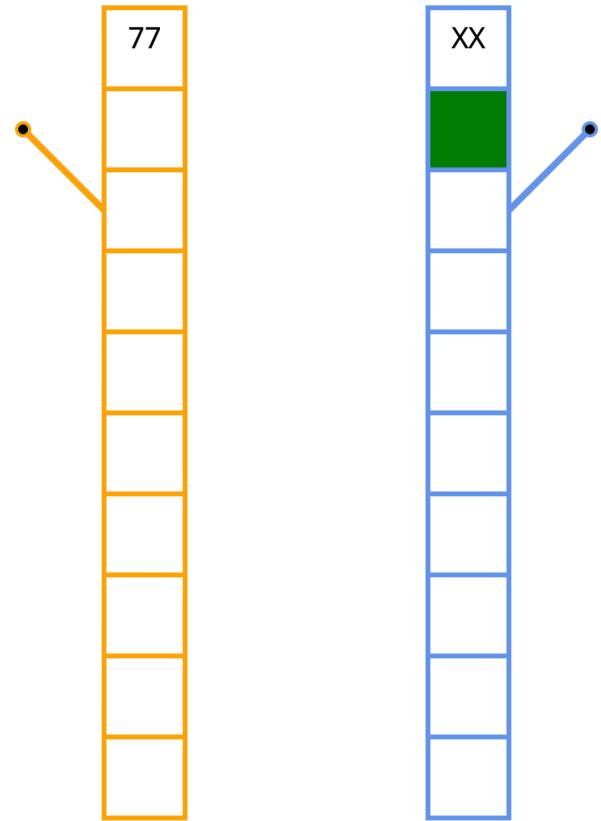

The stacks of boxes look like this

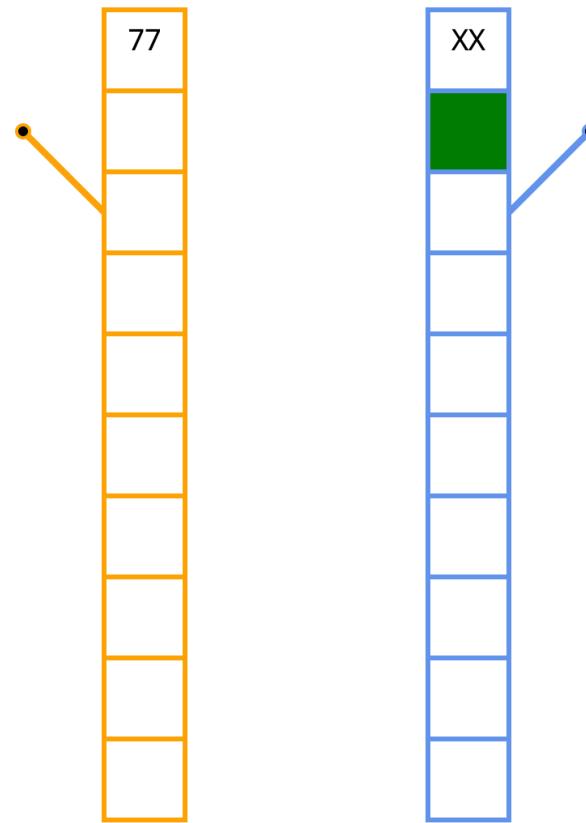

Every time you choose one stack, the lever on the side will be pulled like this ...

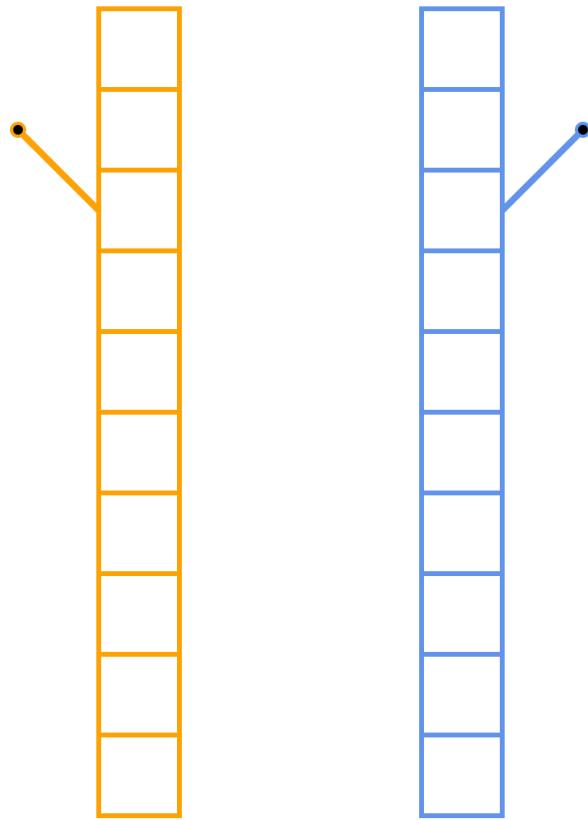

When the lever is pulled you will see how many points you got!

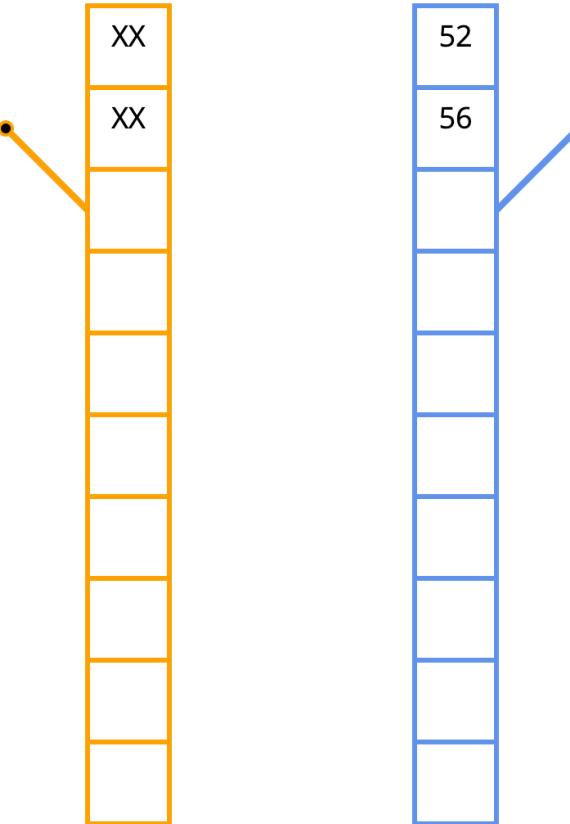

So if you chose the left orange stack you get 77 points.

Most of the time all the boxes in a stack have the same points, but some may give you more or less points than others.

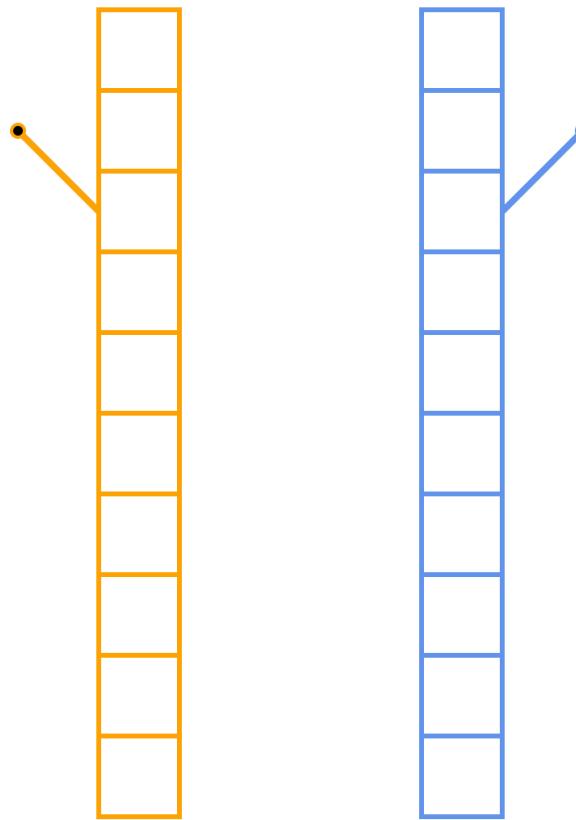

For example, in the blue stack on the right, the first box gave 52 points and the second box gave 56 points. So the number of points is about the same in the boxes.

A third box has 45 points, so a little less, but close to the other boxes in the stack.

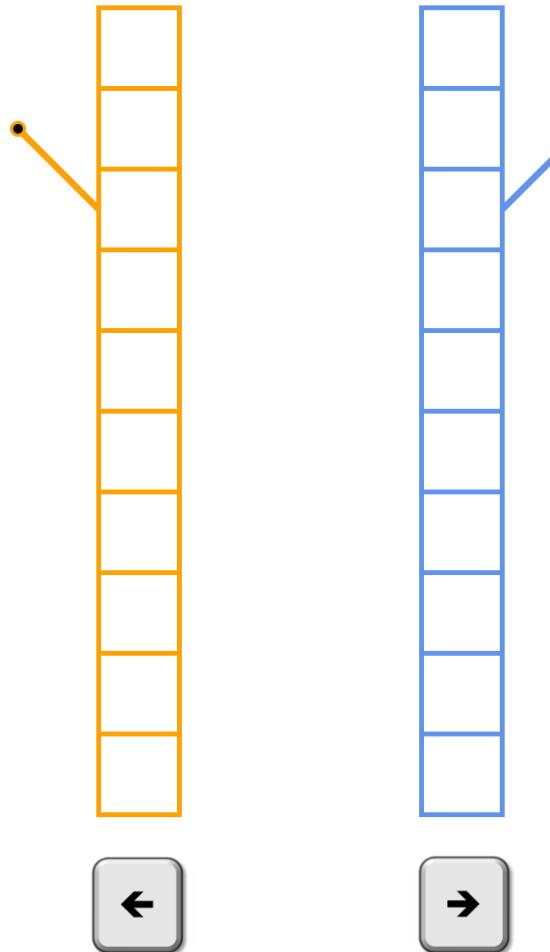

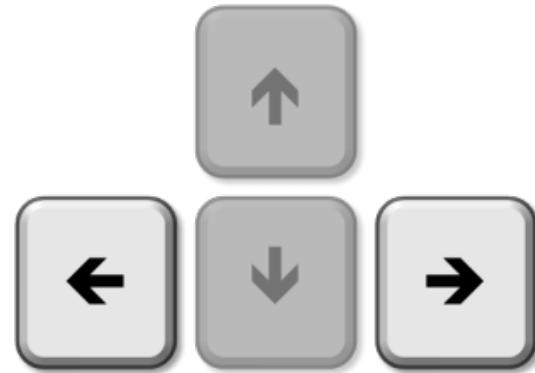

On each game, either the left orange stack or the right blue stack will have boxes worth more points. You get to choose which stack to pick.

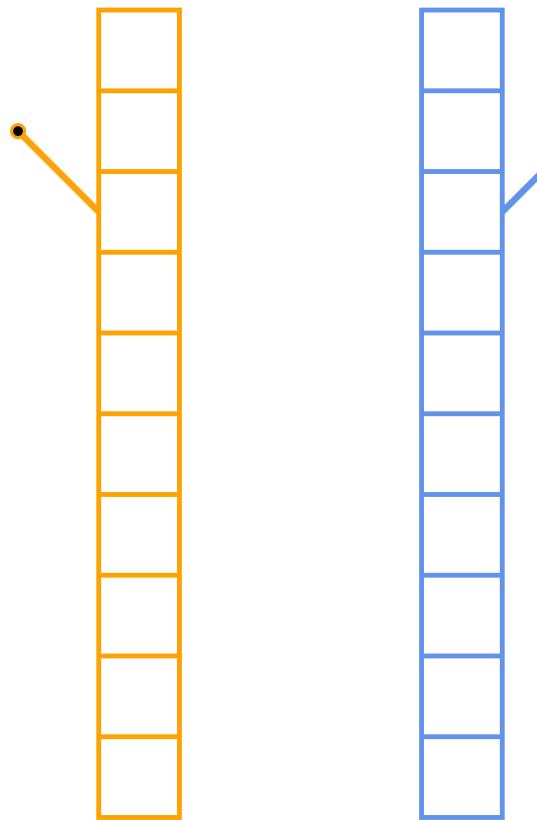

To make your choice:

Press < to play the left orange stack

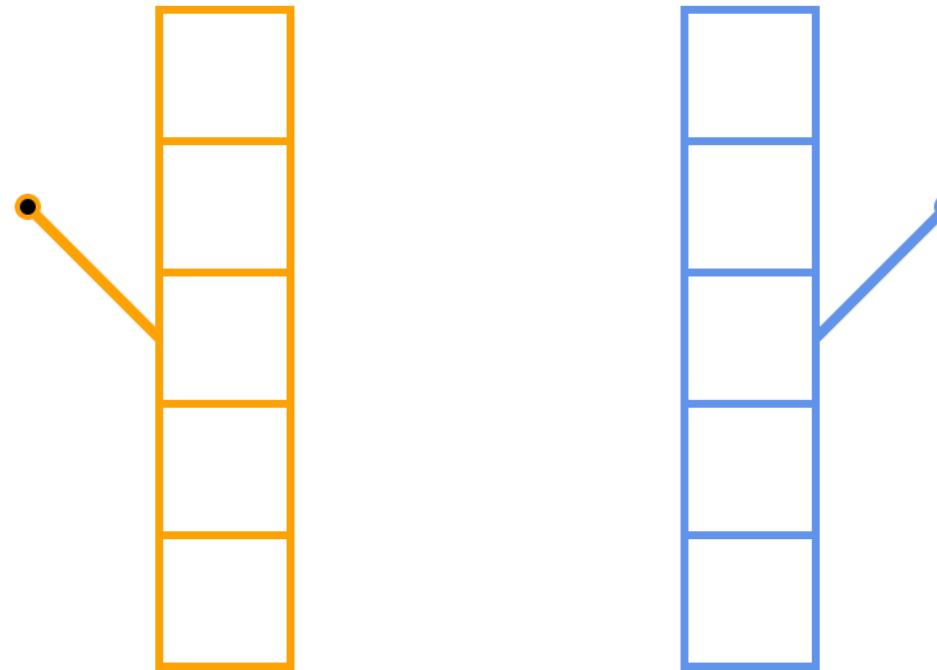

Press > to play the right blue stack

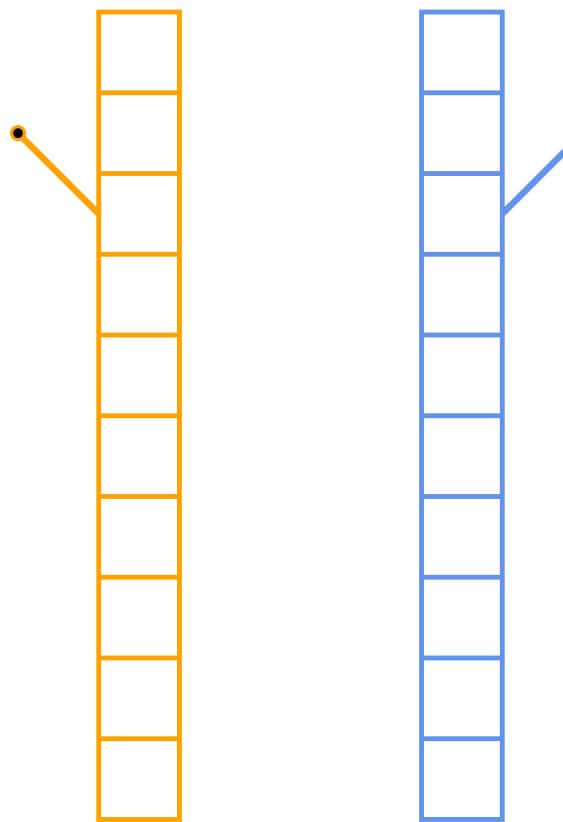

You can tell how many choices you will have by the number of boxes. If the stack is 10 boxes high, that means you get 10 guesses...

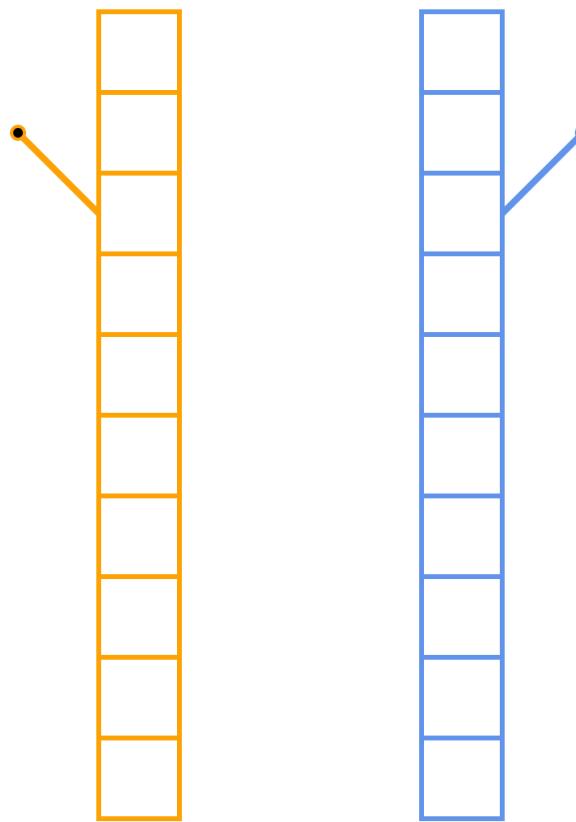

If there are 5 boxes then you only get 5 guesses.

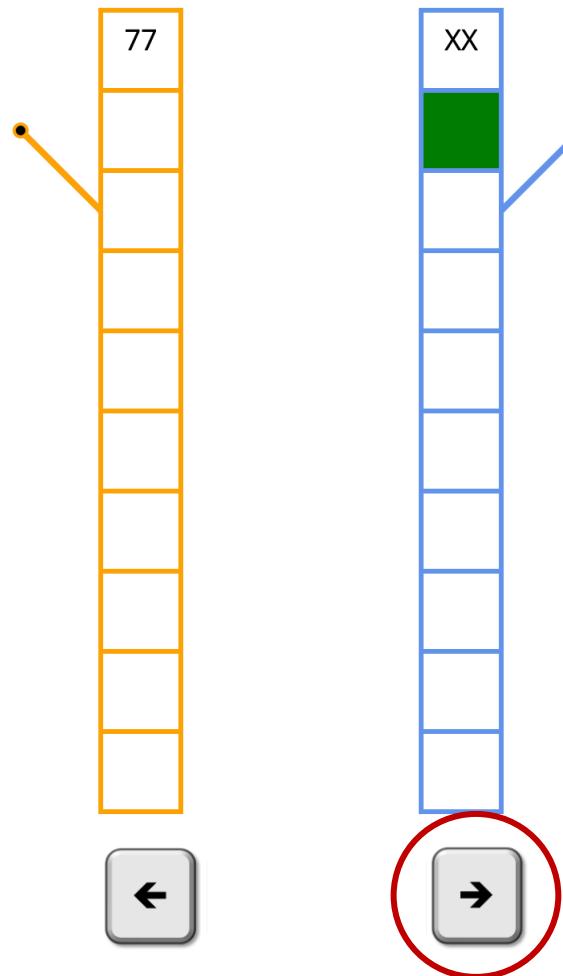

To help you earn points, we will tell you which stack to choose for your first 4 choices.

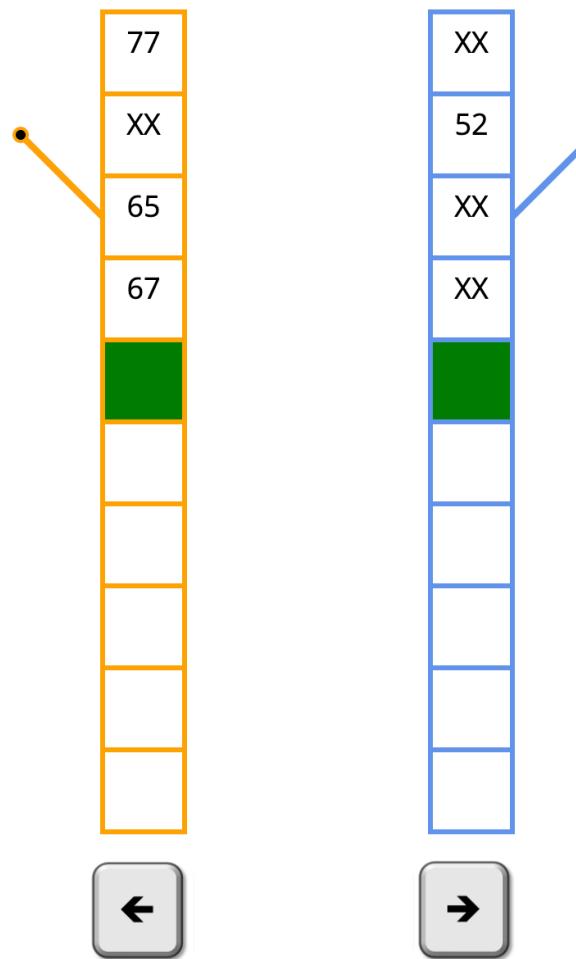

There will be a green square inside the box we want you to open and you must press the button to choose this stack to get your points. Here you would choose the orange stack on the left.

Here you would choose the blue stack on the right.

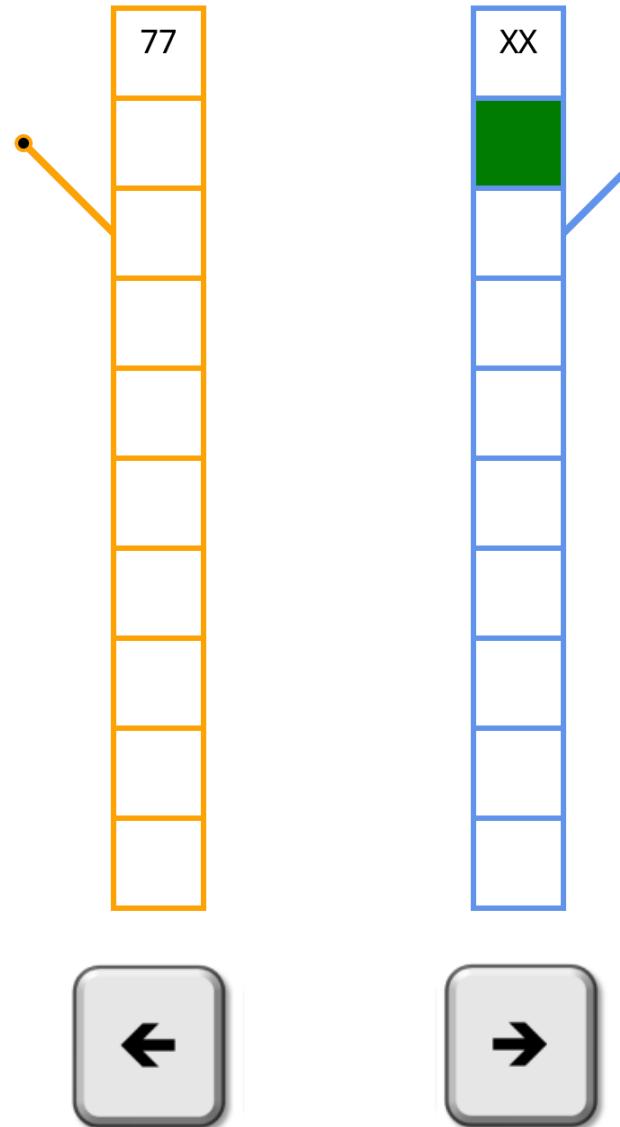

When you will see TWO green squares you get to pick the one that you want.

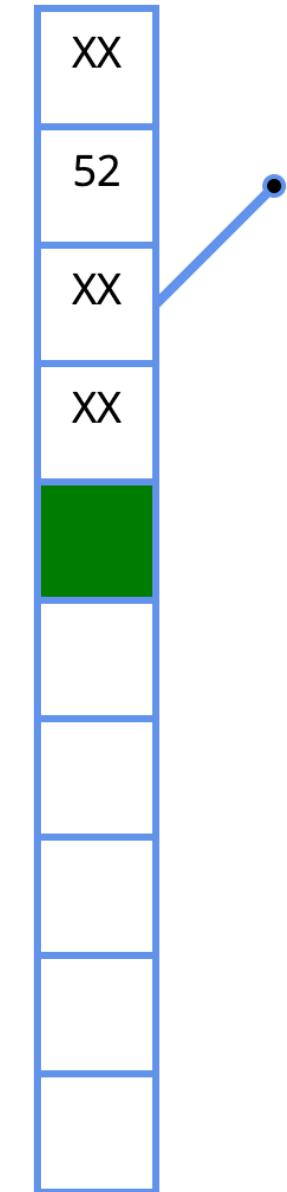

So ... to be sure that everything makes sense
